2019 PROGRESS REPORT
Victoria radiates creativity and thrives as a home to creative people and everyday artistic encounters.

Arts, Culture and Events Office

Victoria is home to a vibrant and eclectic arts and culture community, from world class performing arts, museums and festivals to local authors and artisans. The juxtaposition of heritage charm and modern urban living is part of what makes Victoria one of the most uniquely special places in Canada.

The City has been working with local arts and cultural groups for over 45 years to support initiatives such as multicultural festivals, special events and films, Canada Day celebrations, public art, Victoria’s Poet Laureate and Youth Poet Laureate program, and the annual City of Victoria Butler Book Prize.

In 2019, the City invested approximately $1.6 million dollars in arts, culture and events.

Create Victoria Arts and Culture Master Plan

Extensive public input has informed the development of the Create Victoria Arts and Culture Master Plan, which aligns ideas, people, and resources around a shared vision and a set of goals, strategies and actions to realize Victoria’s creative potential and guide investment over the next five years. City Council adopted the plan and its implementation framework on December 14, 2017.

We look forward to our continued work with the community on implementing this plan!
The City of Victoria is located on the homelands of the Songhees and Esquimalt People.

Since 2017, a working group has commissioned a feasibility study, hosted a design charrette and developed a draft business plan to examine the viability of a creative hub downtown.

The City joined the Social Purpose Real Estate (SPRE) Collaborative and the Rent/Lease/Own Study to understand the real estate challenges affecting the not-for-profit sector. Look for the report later this year.

Council approved a motion to direct staff to align the Create Victoria Master Plan with the Victoria Housing Strategy to include the creation of housing for artists as a goal of the Victoria Housing Strategy.

The Indigenous Artist in Residence Program is now an ongoing program to ensure Indigenous voices and stories are shared and reflected in city planning, a key objective under the Telling Our Story Strategic Priority.

In her position as the inaugural Indigenous Artist in Residence, Lindsay Delaronde improved the City’s engagement with vulnerable and disadvantaged citizens and created opportunities for the public to participate in the City’s reconciliation journey. She also supported local artists and businesses through collaborative art projects.

In addition, Lindsay developed three art symposiums from 2017 to 2019 focused on sharing Indigenous philosophies, contemporary expressive forms, interactive learning and exploration.

Have you checked out Sacred at City Hall? This long-term Indigenous art exhibit, curated by Rose Spahan, features work from eight artists in a variety of mediums including mural, video, poetry, projections, photography and silk screens.

As part of her residency, Lindsay directed two theatre productions, Pendulum and Supernova, at the Belfry Theatre, featuring traditional and contemporary Indigenous performances for healing the spirit through song, dance, and storytelling.

We heard you! During Create Victoria we heard the need for more exhibition opportunities for artists. Our two new programs are the Storefronts Victoria Exhibition, and Commute: A Bus Shelter Art Exhibition. These provide opportunity for pop up interventions and temporary exhibitions for local artists.

A roster of pre-qualified local artists is available for mural and community art opportunities. The new roster will streamline the City’s process for connecting artists with local businesses and community groups looking to enhance exterior walls with a mural. To accompany the roster, a mural toolkit has also been created to assist the community through the mural making process: a key deliverable of Create Victoria.

The Public art policy is a key document to guide Council and staff’s work. Council passed an updated public art policy, which included creating a reserve fund for public art maintenance to ensure we can continue to care for over 100 artworks in the public realm.

arts + culture programming

Centennial Square and Cameron Bandshell in Beacon Hill Park offer free summer programming for the community, including craft workshops, dancing and drop-in chess. In addition, the City hires local bands to perform with music styles including classical, folk, pop, and electronic.

In 2018, an emphasis was placed on creating more local family friendly, multicultural programming during Canada Day Celebrations. The mainstage reflects Canada’s cultural diversity and showcased the event’s first Indigenous headliner and the first drag queen emcee.

Agartu Ali, the City’s Youth Poet Laureate hosted a poetry event called Poems of Colour that included poets and musicians at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria. Events like this provide an opportunity for more inclusive platforms and spaces for engagement with the community.

A series of round table discussions on the future of philanthropic funding of arts and culture was held and hosted by the Union Club of British Columbia. A summary of key recommendations will help guide the City in building awareness and understanding for the need of private sector and individual philanthropic support.

The City hosted a Vacant Storefront Information Session during the University of Victoria pop up MFA exhibition on the 800 Block of Fort Street. A key deliverable is more opportunities for dialogue and networking.

One of our key objectives is to facilitate social inclusion, and promote diversity, community wellness and accessibility in cultural spaces. City staff facilitated a number of projects with our community partners including:

» Supporting a small group of youth at risk in Centennial Square by hosting bbqs and helping them develop a community mural. The artwork is a reflection and reaction to climate change and pollution.

» Staff held three roundtable discussions with a group of Indigenous artists, curators, and art administrators. The discussions were Indigenous-led and focused on discussing the Indigenous Artist in Residence program and proposing improvements for the next residency.

» The Create Victoria Mixer + Artist Panel was a free event on top of the Yates Street Parkade and included a panel discussion featuring local artists Fern Long, Joshua Ngenda and Austin Clay Willis, moderated by local artist Amanda Farrell-Low.
