

Proem

One night, while the wind bundled a small town in snow, abandoning it like a child in the forest, birth swept me protesting into the hungry maw of the storm.

March 2, 1945