Land Acknowledgement

The City of Victoria is located on the homelands of the Songhees Nation and the Xwsepsum Nation.

Introduction

Do you have an idea to bring a neighbourhood space to life or bring community together? If so, we'd like to hear from you. Your project should address one of the following themes:

- 1. Placemaking
- 2. Community-building activities
- 3. Community resiliency

Purpose

This policy guides the allocation of funding for projects that impact public space, and that support community building activities.

Objective

The My Great Neighbourhood Grant program aims to foster positive connections among residents in the City of Victoria. The program supports new projects that enhance community spaces with physical improvements, promotes community development through activities and celebrations and strengthens resilience within neighbourhoods.

Jubilee Parkfest

This grant program is designed to strengthen community and neighbourhood connections among residents. When preparing your application, please ensure your project addresses the following considerations:

- It is community-led
- There is clear evidence of neighbourhood support for the proposal
- It fosters community identity and expression
- It contributes to neighbourhood pride and enhances quality of life

At the heart of this program is a focus on creating new relationships and strengthening existing ones, between neighbours and across neighbourhoods.

Definitions and Examples

Community-Led

Community-led refers to initiatives, projects or activities that are initiated, planned and carried out by community members. These efforts are driven by the needs, interests and priorities of the community. Community-led approaches empower participants and encourage collaboration.

Community Space

Community spaces include land under a license of occupation by a non-profit organization (e.g., community garden), boulevards, local streets and minor green spaces. It can also include property under the management of School District 61 and other levels of government. In certain cases, private property may also be considered (e.g., space owned by a strata corporation that is accessible to the general public). Permission must be obtained in writing from all owners prior to submitting an application. Placemaking projects within larger City parks are discouraged due to the complexity in design, function, maintenance and use of these public spaces. These factors make installing placemaking features in parks more challenging compared to other spaces in the public realm.

Community Development

Community development is defined as a process where community members work together to strengthen social connections. It focuses on empowering individuals and groups, building local capacity and fostering collaboration. Community development is inclusive and encourages participation, collaboration and involvement from all members of the community.

Examples of community development activities could include:

- Short-term neighbourhood improvement or cleaning programs (e.g., beach cleanup, graffiti removal)
- Emergency management workshops for neighbours living on the same street
- Community programs with a focus on building social connections
- New neighbourhood celebrations and block parties (not previously established)
- An education awareness event involving training or information useful to all residents

Community Resiliency

Community resiliency refers to the ability of a community to anticipate, prepare for, respond to and recover from adverse events such as natural disasters, economic challenges, public health crises or other disruptions. A resilient community can withstand stress, adapt to changing circumstances and emerge stronger by leveraging its resources, social networks and local knowledge.

Key aspects of community resiliency include:

- Strong relationships and mutual support among community members
- The capacity to adjust to new conditions or challenges
- Practices that ensure long-term ecological, social and economic wellbeing and ensure all members of the community, especially marginalized or vulnerable groups, are included in decision making and have access to support systems

Examples of resiliency projects could include:

- Community projects that build on existing community assets to create stronger support systems and connection
- Creating neighborhood response teams to give practical help and emotional support to people who feel alone, especially seniors
- Creating youth-focused programs that support connection between young people and their neighbourhood, ideally by fostering a sense of belonging in their neighbourhoods
- New programs and activities that help people deal with climate change, grow food, handle emergencies, take care of the environment, treat everyone fairly and build strong communities
- Programs and projects that identify and support City Council's priority of community wellbeing at the neighbourhood level

Placemaking

Placemaking is defined as a collaborative approach between neighbours to redesign underutilized public spaces that puts the needs of the community at the centre of the process. Placemaking focuses on transforming spaces into vibrant, inclusive and functional places that foster social interaction, wellbeing and a sense of belonging. Placemaking is about making spaces more accessible, attractive and functional. It encourages the use of spaces for diverse activities, such as relaxation, recreation and events.

Examples of placemaking projects could include:

- Community garden and boulevard improvements
- Communal gathering spaces
- Decorative lighting displays
- Community art displays
- Community murals*
- Neighbourhood branding initiatives
- New playable spaces outside of designated parks
- Little free libraries that might contain books, seeds, toys, food or art supplies
- Street murals on local streets

*Community murals are subject to the guidelines provided through the City's mural process. Once the original design has been submitted and signed off by the City and artist, major alterations or additions will not be allowed. Refusal to comply may require removal of the mural by the City.

In addition:

1. Profanity, hate language and any other words and/or images that are likely to be perceived by the general public as offensive will not be permitted.
2. Any language or images that convey or portray drug and/or alcohol use will not be permitted.
3. Explicit or encrypted signatures or acronyms will not be permitted.

Maintenance and Project Lifespan

Successful placemaking projects will be maintained for a mutually agreed upon lifespan for a minimum of two years and a maximum of five years. If the item created through the project falls into disrepair, requires replacement, or becomes a safety concern, it may need to be removed. Placemaking projects may be continued beyond the initial term through a renewed agreement of the City and the community organization. Activity projects with a physical nature will be maintained for a period of up to six months by the community organization once activated.

Monitoring and Reporting

Each grant recipient will be required to submit a final report as specified by the City of Victoria. A final report template will be supplied. In addition to answering the questions, your report must include a financial reconciliation and photos that can be used by the City for the purposes of promoting this grant program.

Time Extensions and Repayment of Grants

If the grant will not be used for the stated purpose, the full amount must be returned to the City of Victoria.

At the discretion of the Neighbourhood Team, an extension for an approved grant may be allowed under extenuating circumstances. If after eighteen months the project is not complete, the City will ask for the funds to be returned.
